

Community and Social Upliftment Programs

Foster constructive working relationships and alliances among communities, companies, corporate social investment and governments.

Build capacity within governments, companies, and communities to address sustainable development issues at the local level.

Promote the value-adding potential of economically viable development.

Outlet for the 'tailings' or mining waste, creating a self-sustaining commercial industry for the local community and converting the mining waste into something quite positive.

Reduce the health problems created by airborne dust and provide their children with a better future.

Communities can now take control over their own future and build homes, schools, clinics recreational areas and roads.

Dust Free Roads

Innovative, environmentally friendly, polymer technology for brick manufacturing and road construction

Create bricks, blocks and pavers for self sustaining Green Eco Village

www.aggrebind.com

Healthier Environment

Sustainable community development programs are those that contribute to the long-term strengthening of community viability.